

O&O FileErase: Delete data securely, reliably and permanently

Berlin, October 09, 2019

Sensitive data such as private photos, documents or financial information can be securely deleted with O&O FileErase.

O&O FileErase destroys files and folders with just the push of a button. The user can decide which level of security should be applied for permanently removing data.

Even data selected to be deleted using a lower security level cannot be restored with any of the common data recovery products on the market. These lower levels are well suited for deleting files such as private photos or videos before the computer is given away or sold.

Data deleted at a medium or higher level of security using O&O FileErase cannot even be restored in data recovery laboratories or by specialized agencies. These levels are recommended for deleting sensitive company or financial data.

To protect private information under Windows 10, the user can themselves set the level of security that should be used for destroying any data. With one click, files and folders can be selected and at the push of a button, deletion begins. O&O FileErase always displays whatever it is doing clearly and precisely.

Thanks to O&O's SolidErase technology, the first of its kind anywhere in the world, data on SSDs can now also be deleted securely with no impact on the hardware.

Pricing and availability

O&O FileErase costs 14,95 USD. A license for use on up to 5 computers is also available for 23,95 USD. All prices include 19% sales tax where applicable.

Interested users can download a free 30-day trial of O&O FileErase from the O&O Website:
